What is National Health Insurance?

See the electronic version of this booklet for more details.

National Health Insurance (NHI) is a system in which all enrollees (insured persons) can receive medical care with peace of mind by making contributions according to their respective incomes and having medical expenses paid from this pool. Insured persons who are sick or injured are entitled to NHI medical care benefits, but heads of households are accordingly obliged to pay insurance premiums.

National Health Insurance Card (Health Insurance Card)

Inquiries National Health Insurance Eligibility Section

- Never lend your insurance card to another person (you can be punished under the law if your health insurance card is used illegally).
- All health insurance cards are updated every two years, and the new insurance cards are sent to the heads of household before the previous cards expire.
- If you are 70 to 74 years old, please show your elderly benefits card along with your health insurance card (see page 25 for details).

*There is an organ donor declaration of intent space on the back of each health insurance card. For questions and inquiries about organ transplants, please contact the Japan Organ Transplant Network (☎0120-78-1069).

How insurance premiums are determined

Inquiries National Health Insurance Eligibility Section

Determining insurance premiums

The insurance premiums for a single year (April to March of the following year) are determined each June, with a notice sent out around the middle of June. Insurance premiums are to be paid in 10 installments between the payment deadlines for June and March of the following year. The payment deadline is the last day of each payment period (or the following business day if the financial institution is closed that day).

Changes in insurance premiums

Insurance premiums may change for residents who moved to Shinjuku City on or after January 2 and for persons who withdrew from National Health Insurance during the fiscal year. Notifications will be sent to households whose insurance premiums have changed during the fiscal year, and in such cases, please use the updated payment slips enclosed with the notification when paying premiums.

Time limit for reassessments of insurance premiums

Reassessments of insurance premiums (changes to insurance premiums) cannot be conducted after two years have passed from the day following the first insurance premium payment deadline for the fiscal year in question. Consequently, you may not be able to receive a refund on overpaid insurance premiums. If you have not completed National Health Insurance withdrawal procedures or have not completed the income declaration for previous fiscal years, please do so immediately.

All enrollees in National Health Insurance are insured persons, and they thereby incur insurance premiums. The head of household listed on the certificate of residence is obliged to pay the insurance premiums. Even in the case in which the head of a household has other health insurance and only the other household members are enrolled in National Health Insurance, the head of household is responsible for paying the premiums (a fictitious case for explanatory purposes). For this reason, insurance premium notifications, etc., will be sent to the head of household.

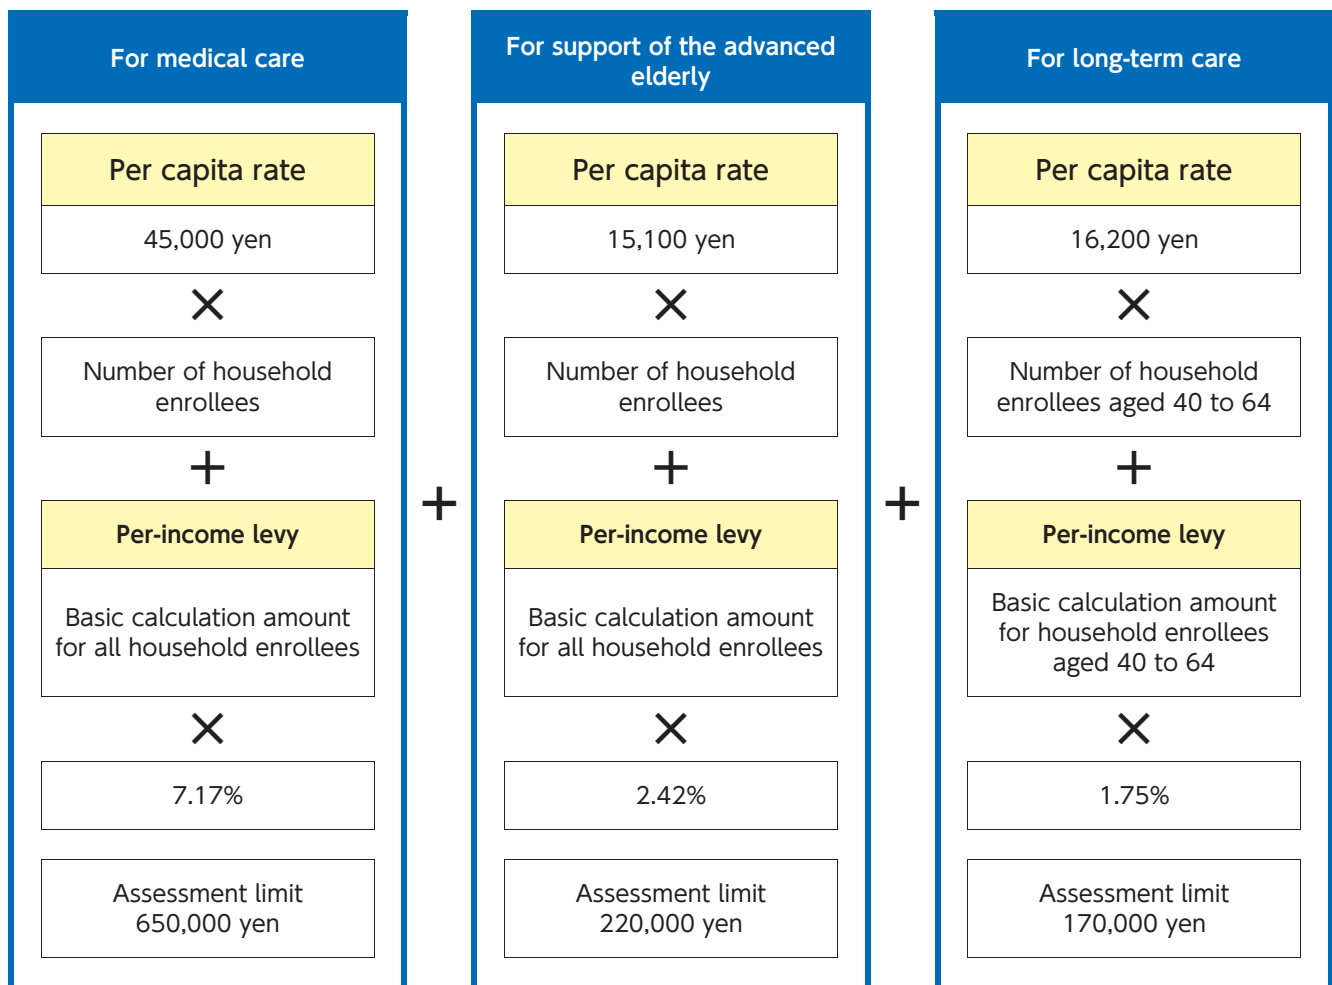

How insurance premiums are calculated

Inquiries National Health Insurance Eligibility Section

Insurance premiums are calculated per household using the following formula, based on the number of National Health Insurance enrollees, the number of Category 2 long-term care insured persons (National Health Insurance enrollees aged 40 to 64), and the basic calculation amount.

*The basic calculation amount is the total of gross income, timber income, long-term (short-term) capital gains on stocks, etc., minus a basis deduction of 430,000 yen (if total income is 24 million yen or less) (deductions for carryover of casualty losses do not apply). When the basic calculation amount for all household enrollees is less than 0 yen, the insurance premium is calculated as 0 yen.

$$\text{Fiscal 2023 insurance premiums} = \text{for medical care} + \text{for support for the advanced elderly} + \text{for long-term care (for those aged 40 to 64)}$$

*The per capita rate is reduced to half for preschool-aged children

Declaration of residence tax (declaration of income)

The basic calculation amounts for insurance premiums are calculated based on your taxation details for residence tax.

If all members of the household declare their income, they may be eligible for programs that, for example, reduce the per capita rate of their insurance premiums (page 15). Even if you did not have any income during the previous year or are otherwise not legally required to declare your income, please do submit a declaration of your income for the purpose of residence tax calculation.

When exemptions from insurance premiums are available

Inquiries National Health Insurance Eligibility Section

Reduction of the per capita rate (reduction assessment)

The per capita rate will be reduced for households whose income during the previous year is below a certain level. To be eligible for such a reduction, the previous year's incomes of all enrollees, including the head of household, must be known.

Even if you did not have any income during the previous year or are otherwise not legally required to declare your income, please do submit a declaration of your income for the purpose of residence tax calculation.

*If the head of household is not enrolled in National Health Insurance but does have income, the rate may not be reduced in some cases.

*The reference date for determining whether or not the rate will be reduced is April 1, 2023 (the day on which new enrollees join the National Health Insurance program).

Fiscal 2023 reduction levels

	Reduction rate	Income (gross income, etc., for the previous year)
No. 1 reduction	70%	430,000 yen + (total number of salary or pension income earners - 1) × 100,000 yen
No. 2 reduction	50%	430,000 yen + (total number of salary or pension income earners - 1) × 100,000 yen + 290,000 yen × (number of insured persons in the household and specified members of the same household*)
No. 3 reduction	20%	430,000 yen + (total number of salary or pension income earners - 1) × 100,000 yen + 535,000 yen × (number of insured persons in the household and specified members of the same household*)

*A specified member of the same household refers to a person who has withdrawn from National Health Insurance as a result of a transfer to the Medical Care System for the Advanced Elderly.

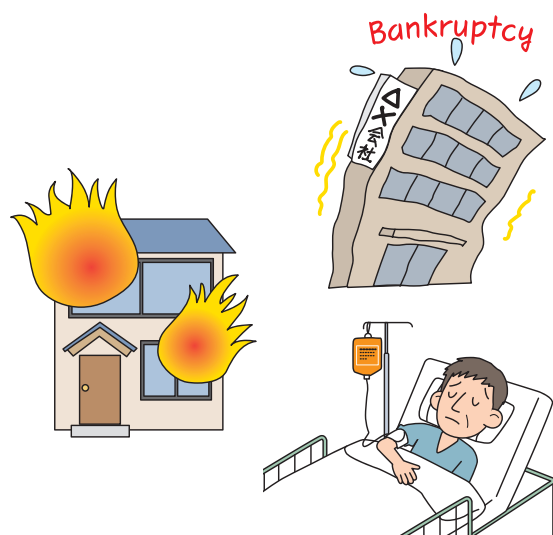

Measures to reduce insurance premiums for persons who become involuntarily unemployed

Persons who have left their jobs due to bankruptcy or dismissal and who meet both conditions ① and ② below may have their insurance premiums recalculated based on 30/100 of their previous year's salary income by submitting notification forms. The reduction period will extend from the month in which the day after the person became unemployed falls to the end of the fiscal year following that in which the month the person became unemployed falls.

- ① The person in question is under the age of 65 as of the date of leaving their job
- ② The person in question has been issued an "Employment Insurance Eligibility Certificate" or "Employment Insurance Eligibility Notification" by the Public Employment Security Office (Hello Work) and the number of the reason for leaving their previous job is 11, 12, 21, 22, 23, 31, 32, 33, or 34

General exemptions

If you face extreme hardship due to a disaster, bankruptcy, illness, etc., and you find it beyond your assets and abilities to pay your insurance premiums, you can apply for a reduction of, or exemption from, insurance premiums. Before applying, please consult with us by telephone. Insurance premiums for which the payment deadlines have passed are not covered under this scheme.

How to pay insurance premiums

Inquiries Payment Promotion Section

The insurance premium payment deadline will be the last day of each payment period (or the next business day if the financial institution is closed on the last day).

1 Payment by direct debit (automatic payment)

Payments can be automatically made from a designated savings account on the last day of every month (or the next business day if the last day falls on a Saturday, Sunday, holiday, etc.). Please use the “Shinjuku City National Health Insurance Premium Account Transfer (Automatic Payment) Request Form” to register for automatic payments.

For financial institution accounts at Mizuho, Mitsubishi UFJ (MUFG), Sumitomo Mitsui, Resona, or Japan Post Bank, the account holder must bring their cash card (magnetic strip card) to the City office and complete the account transfer procedures with their personal identification number (PIN). We recommend the use of direct debit payments so as to avoid forgetting to make payments.

Note that some cards cannot be used.

Every December, we will send you an “Account Transfer Receipt” to inform you of the insurance premiums debited from your account that year.

2 Cashless payment

For cashless payment methods using smartphones and personal computers, please carefully check the terms and conditions of the companies supporting cashless payments and be on your guard against fraud.

■ Payment by mobile cash register

You can read the barcode printed on your payment slips (300,000 yen or less) with your smartphone's camera and pay using mobile banking (banking services available via the Internet) or a credit card. For details, see the electronic version of this booklet or the “Mobile Cash Register” home page on the NTT Data Corporation website. Credit payment is not a service that allows you to pay by credit card at a City office counter.

■ Pay-easy payment

You can pay using your smartphone, computer or an ATM. There are no maximum limits or transfer fees for such payments. For details, see the electronic version of this booklet or the “Pay-easy” website.

■ Code-based electronic money payment

You can use an invoice payment service of a pre-registered smartphone payment app to read the barcode printed on the payment slip and pay with a pre-charged balance. Please check the payment locations on the back of the payment slip to see which smartphone payment apps can be used.

Please see the electronic version of this booklet for more details.

For those who are unable to pay their insurance premiums

Inquiries ▶ Payment Promotion Section

Please contact us

If you find it difficult to make a payment, please contact the Payment Promotion Section before the due date for the payment. We also accept payment consultations on City office working holidays (in principle on the 4th Sunday each month). Please check the electronic version of this booklet for details regarding holiday payment consultations.

What happens if your insurance premiums are not paid by the due date:

Reminders and notifications

A reminder will be sent to you in accordance with the law. We will also notify you by telephone, mail, SMS, etc. (there may be cases in which a reminder is sent even after the payment has been made if the payment was made after the deadline). Late fees may be added based on the number of days between the day after the due date and the actual payment date.

If your insurance premiums are still not paid, the following steps will be taken:

An insured qualification certificate will be issued

Households who are in arrears due to reasons other than natural disasters or other special circumstances will be asked to return their health insurance cards.

An “insured qualification certificate” will be issued to households that have returned their health insurance cards (even if the cards are not returned, they will be deemed to have been returned once the expiration date has passed). You should present your insured qualification certificate when visiting any type of medical facility. However, you will be liable for all medical expenses incurred at medical facilities (medical expenses (the insurer’s share) will be refunded at a later date upon application, but this share will be applied to any delinquent insurance premium payments). Once you have paid all delinquent insurance premiums in full, you will be issued a regular health insurance card.

Limitation of benefits

Some or all insurance benefits, including those pertaining to high-cost and special medical expenses, may be applied to any delinquent insurance payment premiums or may be suspended. In addition, we may not be able to issue a certificate of application for the maximum copayment (certificate of application for the maximum copayment amount/reduced standard copayment amount) if your insurance premiums have not been paid by the due date.

Coercive collection

The deposits and savings, salaries, life insurance policies and other assets of households that are in arrears but do not correspond to special circumstances and have not sought the payment consultations offered by us will be investigated in accordance with the law. Subsequently, delinquent payments will be taken by seizing assets.

Even if these measures are taken, enrollees will still be obliged to pay any delinquent insurance premiums.

Benefits available under National Health Insurance

Important points to be aware of when withdrawing from National Health Insurance

Inquiries National Health Insurance Benefits Section

If you receive medical treatment using your health insurance card even though you have withdrawn from National Health Insurance in Shinjuku City after moving out of Shinjuku City or taking out health insurance at your workplace, you will be required to repay the medical expenses incurred at a later date (National Health Insurance share). In addition, it may take some time for your new location or workplace to issue a health insurance card. Even if you have not received your new health insurance card, you will not be eligible for National Health Insurance in Shinjuku City from the date of enrollment in your new health insurance.

You can find more details about the benefits system and application methods in the electronic version of this booklet, so please use it together with this booklet.

Elderly beneficiary card

Inquiries National Health Insurance Eligibility Section

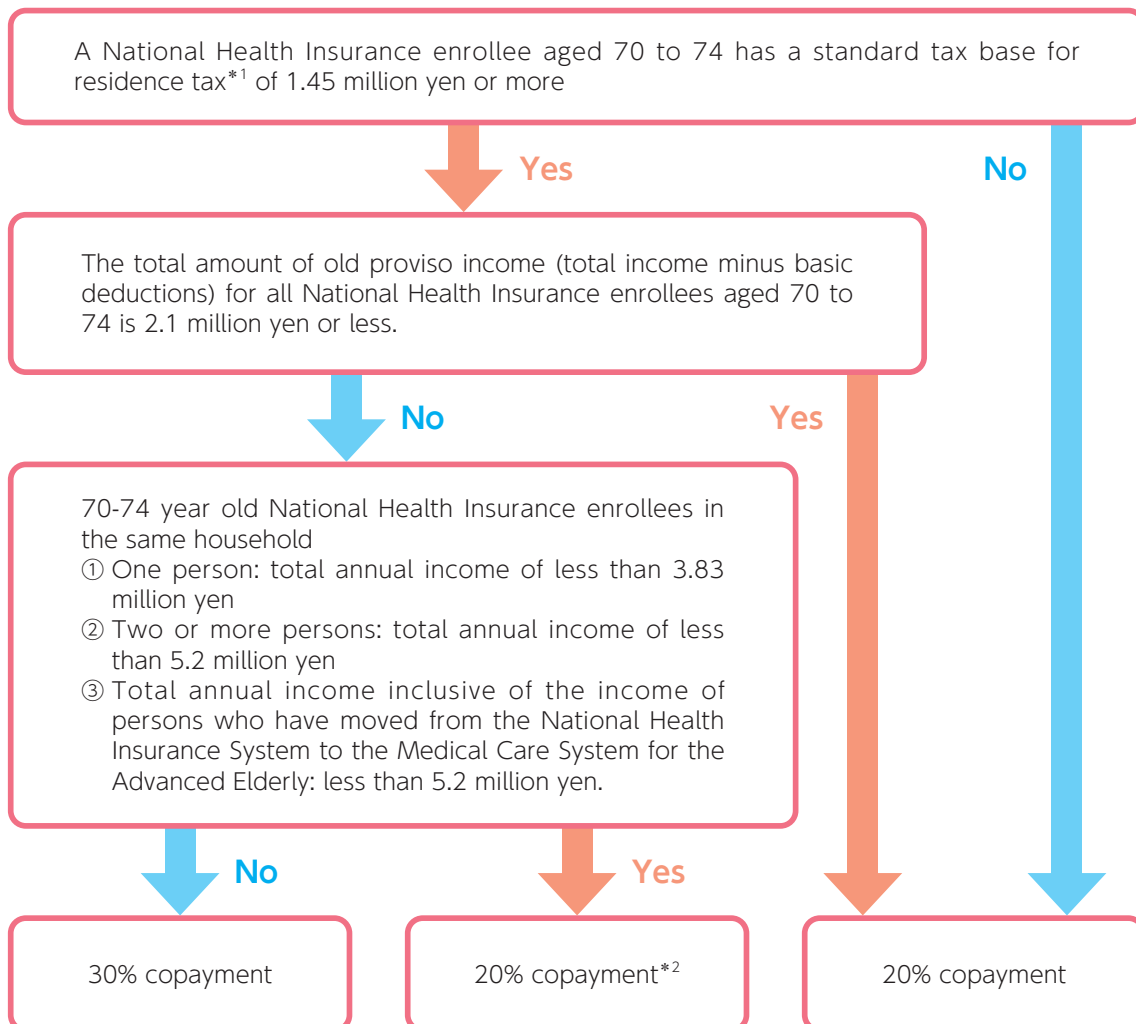

If you are 70 to 74 years old and enrolled in National Health Insurance for medical treatment, we will send you an elderly beneficiary card that can be used from the month following the month of your 70th birthday (or the month of your birth if your birthday is the first day of the month). The elderly beneficiary card shows the copayment ratio (20% or 30%) to be paid at hospitals, etc. Please present both your health insurance card and your elderly beneficiary card when receiving medical treatment.

Once you have registered for the use of your Individual Number Card as a health insurance card (Individual Number health insurance card), you can receive medical treatments without carrying a health insurance card or an elderly beneficiary card. You can confirm the medical facilities at which this card can be used on the Ministry of Health, Labour, and Welfare's website.

Criteria for determining copayment ratio

The out-of-pocket rate of medical expenses is determined every year based on the standard tax base for residence tax*¹. For details, please see the electronic version of this booklet or the leaflet enclosed with your elderly beneficiary card.

*² Application may be required.

2 Reimbursement system for high-cost medical care – when you incur high medical expenses

A household that (from the first day to the last day of that month) incurs high medical expenses during a given month, for which the copayment for these medical expenses exceeds the maximum copayment amount will be reimbursed for the excess amount. A notification will be sent to the head of the household 3 to 4 months after the month in which the expenses were incurred. Please apply for reimbursement when you receive the notification. Reimbursement will be paid in about one month.

Reimbursement cannot be made after two years from the first day of the month following the month in which you received medical treatment due to the expiration of the statute of limitations. For households that meet certain criteria, such as not being in arrears, applications will not be necessary from the second time onwards, and insurance premiums will automatically be paid through direct debit.

What you need to apply

- High-cost medical treatment payment application form sent from Shinjuku City
- Identification documents for applicants who apply in person *See page 5
- Documents confirming the Individual Numbers of the head of the household and the person who received medical treatment *See page 5

For persons over 70 and under 75

Maximum copayment amount (Table 2)

Classification	Income requirement (household)* ¹	Copayment ratio	Maximum copayment amount

I	Residence tax exemptions		8,000 yen	15,000 yen	—

*¹ The standard tax base is total income minus various income deductions. The income from the year before last will be used when treatment is received between January and July, and from the previous year when treatment is received between August and December.

*² For multiple months, see "Counting the months in which payments above the maximum copayment amount were made" below. For general enrollees, this is the maximum amount for the 4th month and thereafter when monthly outpatient + inpatient payments have exceeded the maximum copayment amount three times.

*³ If the medical expenses paid for outpatient treatment exceed 144,000 yen between August and July of the following year, the excess amount will be paid. We send out notifications once a year to the heads of households who are eligible to receive this payment, so please apply.

Counting the months in which payments above the maximum copayment amount were made

The maximum copayment amount will change depending on the number of months in which payments above the maximum copayment amount were made within the 12 months prior to the month in which treatment was received.

*The months in which payments above the maximum copayment amount were made are marked as "❁".

Multiple months

Sample calculation (household under 70 years old)

Example: Income category "C" *Table 1 on page 29

Husband (50 years old)
Hospitalization
300,000 yen
 (30% copayment)
 Total medical expenses:
 1,000,000 yen

Wife (50 years old)
Outpatient care
6,000 yen
 (30% copayment)
 Total medical expenses:
 20,000 yen

Child (20 years old)
Outpatient care
30,000 yen
 (30% copayment)
 Total medical expenses:
 100,000 yen

① Calculate the copayment for the entire household.

$$300,000 \text{ yen} + 30,000 \text{ yen} = 330,000 \text{ yen}$$

*The wife's outpatient care expenses of 6,000 yen do not meet the condition of totaling 21,000 yen or more, so they are not included in the household total. (Refer to "Conditions for adding together multiple household members and medical facility visits" at the bottom of page 29).

② Calculate the maximum copayment amount for the entire household.

$$80,100 \text{ yen} + (1,100,000 \text{ yen} - 267,000 \text{ yen}) \times 1\% = 88,430 \text{ yen}$$

*Refer to Table 1 on page 29 for the method of calculating the maximum copayment amount.

③ Calculate the payment amount for the entire household.

$$330,000 \text{ yen} - 88,430 \text{ yen} = \mathbf{241,570 \text{ yen (payment amount)}}$$

Sample calculation (household aged 70 to under 75)

Example: Income category "General enrollee" *Table 2 on page 31

Husband (73 years old)
Outpatient care A
15,000 yen (20% copayment)
Outpatient care B
5,000 yen (20% copayment)
 Total medical expenses: 100,000 yen

Wife (73 years old)
Outpatient care
3,000 yen (20% copayment)
Hospitalization
50,000 yen (20% copayment)
 Total medical expenses: 265,000 yen

① Calculate the outpatient reimbursement amount for each individual.

$$\text{Husband: } (15,000 \text{ yen} + 5,000 \text{ yen}) - 18,000 \text{ yen} = 2,000 \text{ yen}$$

↳ Maximum amount for outpatient care for "general enrollee" category *See Table 2 on page 31

$$\text{Wife: } 0 \text{ yen} \text{ * Because the } 3,000 \text{ yen} \text{ paid for outpatient care is less than the minimum of } 18,000 \text{ yen}$$

② Calculate the payment amount for the entire household.

$$(18,000 \text{ yen} + 3,000 \text{ yen} + 50,000 \text{ yen}) - 57,600 \text{ yen} = 13,400 \text{ yen}$$

↳ Remaining copayment for husband

↳ Wife's outpatient copayment

↳ Wife's hospitalization copayment

↳ Household limit for "General Enrollee" category *See Table 2 on page 31

③ Add up the payments.

$$2,000 \text{ yen} + 13,400 \text{ yen} = \mathbf{15,400 \text{ yen (payment amount)}}$$

When you cannot afford to pay the medical expenses when being admitted to a hospital

If you have trouble paying the copayment for medical expenses due to a temporary hardship such as a disaster or unemployment, a system is available for reductions or exemptions of out-of-pocket expenses if an application is submitted and screened in advance. Please be sure to consult us prior to hospitalization.

See the electronic version of this booklet for more details.

3 Certificate of application of maximum copayment amount (certificate of application of maximum copayment amount/reduced standard copayment amount)

If you present a certificate of application of maximum copayment amount/ reduced standard copayment amount, you will only need to pay up to the maximum copayment amount for medical expenses incurred during a one-month period at a single medical facility (with distinctions made between inpatient and outpatient care and medical and dental care).

Please apply to the National Health Insurance Benefits Section for this certificate.

However, you may not be eligible for the certificate if you have not paid your insurance premiums. In addition, the certificate will be valid from the first day of the month in which the application was submitted and cannot be issued retroactively. In addition, the certificate is valid from the first day of the month in which the application was submitted.

If you are 70 years old or older and your income category is "General Enrollee" or "Working-age Equivalent III" (see Table 2 on page 31), you can cover your medical expenses up to the maximum copayment amount just by presenting your elderly beneficiary card.

If you have already registered for the use of your Individual Number Card as a health insurance card (Individual Number health insurance card) and you are not in arrears, you will be exempt from the payment of medical expenses in excess of the maximum copayment amount without presenting your certificate of application for the maximum copayment amount. You can confirm the medical facilities at which this function can be used on the Ministry of Health, Labour, and Welfare's website.

Example: Age 40 years old Income category "D"
(maximum amount 57,600 yen)
* See Table 1 on page 29
Copayment 90,000 yen (30% copayment)
Total medical expenses 300,000 yen

■ If you do not present your certificate of application of maximum copayment amount at the medical facility

You will make a copayment of 90,000 yen (30% copayment) at the medical facility, and then be reimbursed 32,400 yen at a later date for high-cost medical treatment.

■ If you present your certificate of application of maximum copayment amount at the medical facility

You will pay the maximum copayment amount of 57,600 yen at the medical facility.
