Hang thick curtains in front of glass doors and windows to prevent pieces of shattered glass from scattering into your room.
Do not keep heavy or breakable items in high places.
Secure cupboards to prevent their contents from falling out.
If you live in a high-rise building, do not keep items by the entrance.
Keep a flashlight handy in case of a blackout.
Prepare a bag of emergency supplies and emergency food/beverages. Check the contents and the place where you keep the bag.
Ensure that lighting fixtures are securely hung on the ceiling. Use several brackets for hanging light fixtures.
Keep a supply of water in your bathtub or in plastic containers.
Please have your block walls examined and replace them with planting fences if necessary.
Do not keep items in narrow hallways.
Keep a pair of slippers in a designated spot in your bedroom so that you will be able to find them easily when you need to. This will protect you from stepping on broken glass in the dark. Also, it is a good idea to keep a radio and flashlight in your bedroom.
Repair roof tiles and crumbling walls immediately.
Do not put large furniture in your bedroom.
Attach braces to your furniture to prevent them from toppling over.
Do not overload electric outlets with numerous plugs.
It is a good idea to apply safety film to glass windows and doors.
